Migrant Services

Free services for eligible New Migrants & Refugees

Sydney Multicultural Community Services supports newly arrived migrants and refugees who live, work or study in the City, Eastern Suburbs, South-Eastern Sydney and the Lower North Shore to become independent and contribute to the Australian community.

New to Australia

In your first five years in Australia we provide FREE settlement assistance to help you form meaningful connections with your new community.

Benefits from our networks & community building

- practical information (housing, schools, jobs, banking, health, social security, citizenship, form-filling, and government and legal systems)
- training workshops to build skills and knowledge
- one-on-one casework
- referrals to services
- advocacy
- FREE English language classes
- find education and training
- build employment readiness
- registered Justice of Peace available

Join our Networks

You can come and make friends and find support through our networking and cultural groups.

Support for your community group

We support new and emerging community groups and organisations - linking you with the wider community, providing leadership development and encouraging advocacy for positive change.

Want to know more?

Call us or check our website to see if you're eligible for support. Drop in SMCS Head Office for more information, and speak to our bilingual staff about your needs.
